The settlement by the white people, within the limits of Stark county, commenced in 1805—86 years ago. During the menced in 1805—86 years ago. During the succeeding three years, the accession reached not less than one thousand. Up to that time, there was not a physician within weach.

within reach.
In case of accident or sickness, the friends were compelled to rely upon them-selves for relief.

The first case of sickness and death was that of James Culbertson, October 1805. He was a member of Leonard's surveying corps, stationed at the Spring immediately north of the Fair Grounds. He was inclined to dissipate, and while on a visit to an Indian trading post at the mouth of Sandy, included too freely in fire-water and subsequent exposure brought on pneumonia with which he died. His messmates administered warm teas made from roots and herbs, applied hot fomentations over his chest—but he died, evidently of congestion of the lungs, as the case terminated in four days.

inated in four days. A son of John Bowers, living about three miles east of the station, was taken with a fever. The scattered neighbors—"few and far between -were on hand to ad minister as best they could to the relief of the patient. In charity I can believe they did no harm, unless it was in denying the suffering patient cold drink and fresh air The question was discussed of sending to Steubenville for a physician—the nearest known within reach—but the want of ma-terial aid, compelled the idea to be aban-

The first case of surgery, was that of Phillip Smith, which occurred in the same neighborhood. While at work in the clearing, he was struck by a falling limb, and his leg fractured in two places. A consultation was called of the best heads within reach, and a sensible plan of action decided upon. The leg was adjusted as near as possible, to its natural shape, and held in that position by means of olm back wound around with wither. The bark, wound around with withes. The patient was addicted to occasional indulgence in strong drink. After being placed in hed, he begged for a dram; this excited a thirst for more, and he compelled ha wife to furnish him what he wanted. A witness cognizant of the fact (Benj. Gans. who died but a few weeks since) told me that during his six weeks confinement to bed, he drank six gallons of whiskey. It should be mentioned, that the whiskey of that day, was a different article from the mixture of the fusal oil manufactured at the present day. In due time, the splints were removed, and the leg to all appear-ance restored to its former usefulness.

The wife of John Matthews, residing on Market street, between Seventh and Eighth, died in childbed in the winter of 1807-8. Her remains were the first interred in the graveyard on Plum street. The child was the first born in Canton.

Cases of obstetries were attended by women in the neighborhood, who had the largest experience in that line. Grandmother Shorb was the first professional midwife to enter the field. She came in 1807, and maintained a monopoly of the business until forced by the infirmaties of age to retire, which was long after physicians had located in town. I can see the good woman yet on her early morning yishations, going from house to house at a quick pace, carrying a large bag, believing with other small boys, that it was her thission to bring bathes to those who wanted them. 5-8. Her remains were the first interred

In every settlement, there were those who made precently to a knowledge of disease and its treatment. They had no idea of principles in practice, but had acquired a routine system which they con-sidered applicable to all caves—like Halm-emann the founds of Homeopathy, and Priessing with his water care, though not using the same means, it was the same former the patient was bloked by a litrae, had a fainting his or the itch, all the same; he or any must be bled, then physicked no equalize the remains and remove the remain matter, as I have often heard a noted quark express it. If that vigorous reatment did not ours, then, were all parties reconsiled to the issue, believing the time had come when the patient had to die, as it was so forcordained from the beginning.

The early settlers of Stark county, at least those in the neighborhood of Canton, were from Pennsylvania, and of German descent. They were not much in favor of education, but had an idea, that too much learning was calculated to wean the person from -made them proud and lazy. With work—made them proud and lazy. With this ignorance and prejudice came the superstition, and hence were they inclined to believe in witchcraft, and give credence to all sort of absurd notions about sickness and its treatment. There was a general disposition to believe in the efficacy of words, especially if spoken in German and interlarded with scriptural quotations. There are those who would undertake to stop bleeding, arrest a feion, take out poison, remove the pain of a burn, cure a cancer and do many other strange and wonderful feats by words alone. It was the faith cure under a different name. The prevalent diseases of this locality in early days were of zymotic origin, fever and ague, bilious fever and dysentery. The remedy for ague was boneset or dog-wood. If that failed, peruvian bark in tablespoon full doses. Quinine was then unknown.

There was an infatuation, popular at that time, that women enceints should be periodically bled at least once a month, during the period of utero-gestation. The dea was that it would make labor less severe. There were complaints common lifty and sixty years ago of which we selhear mention at the present day, mong them were worms, itch, and "liver grown" with nursing children, especially f German birth.

The first physician to settle in Canton was Dr. Andrew Rappe. He was born in Paris, France, but obtained his medical education in Frankfort-on-the-Main. He came to America in 1805, landing in Baltimore, where he remained about a year and then came to Steubenville, the Ohio river then being considered the western border of civilization. Here he remained until 1808, when he came to Canton. He soon acquired a large practice, which ex-tended over a large territory. He made an eye salve which went by the name of "Rappe's Invalvable Eye Salve," that ac-quired an extensive reputation in the treatment of certain forms of inflammatory troubles of the lids.

Rappe died in 1812. An at occurred at his funeral created considerable talk at Dr. R incident which created considerable talk at the time, may be mentioned.

Mrs. Rappe was a Catholic, and her father, John Shorb, had donated the ground upon which the first Catholic church was creeted, and had a family burial ground adjoining. In this ground Dr. Rappe was interred. At that day the corpse was borne upon a bier to the place of interment upon the shoulders of men, the mourners and friends following the coession on foot. A hearse and carage had not then come into use. Soon for the procession started from the use, a gander was observed in front, reching as stately as a militia captain ding his company. Several efforts ding his company. Several efforts e made to drive him away, but he in-tably returned to the head of the colu, and continued there until the burial place was reached. Dr.Rappe was known, to be a skeptic, a follower of "Pythagoras and believed in the transmigration of souls, and the remark was made that;the soul of the doctor had passed into the gander. Dr. Thomas Bonfield, born and educated in Baltimore, was the second physician to locate in Canton. He had his office in to locate in Canton. He had his office in a front room, on the second floor of Slus-ser's tovera, southeast corner of the Pub-lic Square. Dr. Bonfield was a fluent talker, an enthusiastic and devout metho-dist, attentive to his patients and soon ac-quired a large practice. He was a fast rider, stood in his stirrups leaning forward and always seemed to be in a great hurry, as if the life of his patient depended upon his reaching him.

Scarlet fever made its appearance in Canton the first time in 1832. A number of the young people fell victims to the pestilence. It came into our family and the two younger children next to me, a sister and a brother, died. Dr. Bonfield was our physician. I was the last to take the dis-ease and well remember a night when my condition was considered critical and the doctor bled me three times that night. I overheard and understood much of the conversation carried on be-tween the dector and my parents, and well remember the discouraging remarks, about my recovery, and how I thought to myself, "You may be mistaken—I am not as near dying as you think I am." I often wondered after I commenced the practice of medicine, bow much influence, if any, the blood letting bad upon my recovery. Dr. John Bonfield, a brother of Thomas, ame soon after and opened an office, couliar in manner, he created the im-ression that he was not well balanced in aind, and the community generally dis-rusted him, though there were those who retended to have great confidence in his bility to treat fevers. He was ambitious for office, and a frequent candidate when it was the custom for men to run upon their own hook, independent of conventions. In a contest for the office of county treasurer, when there were half-adozen candidates, he came within one of being the hocky man.

Dr.Wm. Gardner came in 1819. He was a man of portly dignity, rather bruske in manner, self-opinionated, prosperous in business until a circumstance occurred that turned the tide. He treated a daughter of Nicholas Lichley, a well to do farmer of Bethlehem township, for some affection of the eyes until she became blind. Liehley was an impetuous man, much inclined to talk, and alleged that the doctor's treatment had caused the blindness. This talk was creating some feeling in the commu-nity, when Dr. Gardner felt impelled to indicate himself by instituting a suit for lander. The cass created much interest and the Court house was crowded during e progress of the trial. Harris & Belder or the pinintiff, Starkweather & Jarvis or the defendant. Both firms stood high ad were considered the most able men of had were considered the most able men of he bar. Starkweather was especially toted as a jury lawyer, and during his ad-ress to the jury had the blind girl seated effore them, and so trained, that when-wer he made an appeal in behalf of his lient, the poor girl would emphasize by turning up her sightless eyes, imploring as it were a sympathy for her father. The jury returned a verilet for the defendant, immediately after the trial, Lichley brought suit against Gardner for malpractice laying his damages at $10,000. This was supposed to have a degreesing practice laying his damages at $10,000.
This was supposed to have a depressing influence upon the doctor and before the case came to trial he died.
Dr. Thomas Hartford whose beneficence to the poor of Canton has made his name so familiar to our people, came from Con-necticut in 1818. He was clever and disposed to oblige all with whom he came in contact. He made a specialty of prescrib-ing and furnishing medicine to the poor. After a few years he engaged in mer-chandizing by means of which he accumu-lated most of his fortune.

Dr. George Brysacher came from Europe and was said to have been a surgeon in Bonaparte's army. He had an extensive country practice and was a great hunter. It was not an uncommon thing for him to bring home on his horse a deer he had shot. He had a son, a surgeon in the Confederate army. I heard of him frequently during the war. L. S.

ANOTHER INQUEST

Coroner John H. Openhimer Called to McDonaldsville,

To Investigate the Death of a Workman Whose Head Was Sawed in Two-The Particulars.

Late last night Coroner John H. Open-omer was called to the M. W. Shafer form near McDonaldsville to investigate the death of Huston Greenhoe, who was cilled in a saw mill _owned and operated

It seems that Greenhoo was at work in the mill Wednesday afternoon and jumped on the carrier intending to grasp a lever. Instead of so doing he missed the handle, and fell in front of the saw. Like a flash and fell in Front of the saw. Like a lines, and whirled the unfortunate man in such a way that he fell again against the saw his face striking it squarely in the region of the nose. The saw ate its way almost entirely through, before the body fell from its remorseless teeth. It seemed but an instant is the head saway who had beard natant to the head sawyer, who had the noise, until the awful work had been completed.

Greenhoo is a married man and resided at Comet, Summit county, The body was removed to that place and prepared for burial. The deceased was 30 years of age and had only been employed at the mill one day. He was a hard working man and had the respect of all who knew him. The owner of the mill was in no way to blame for the accident, as it was caused by Greenhoe's carelessness.

Coroner Openhimer after visiting the scene of accident went to Comet and viewed the remains. The cut was a deep one, extending from the back of the head to the nose. One eye was entirely gone and the saw penetrated through the brain. Coroner Openhimer took the testimony of G. R. Shafer, William Carl and Nelson Pippus. They told the story as related above, all saying that the owner of the mill was in no way to blame as the machinery was in excellent condition. The coroner returned to Canton at an early coroner returned to Canton at an ours, hour this morning, after a hard night; work, conscious that he had done his ful duty, even if it did cost him a night; sleep.

AN EMINENT SURGEON, Dr. A. W. Ridenour, Expires at Massillor To-day.

One of the most eminent surgeons the day has passed silently away, but the record he leaves behind is lasting.

Dr. A. W. Ridenour, of Massillon, was stricken with paralysis two weeks ago, and was not able to sustain the shock. He died at noon to-day. Dr. Thomas J. Essed of Massillon, attended him, and Reed, of Massillon, attended him, and Dr. T. H. Phillips, of Canton, was also called in consultation, but all that medical skill could do was of no avail. Dr. Ridenour graduated at the Medical College of Ohio, in Cincinnati, in 1868. Shortly after graduation he located at Canal Fulton moving later to Massillon where he after graduation he located at Canal Fulton moving later to Massillon where he resided for 20 years. He was a member of the International Medical Association, the State Medical Association and the Stark County Academy of Medicine. Dr. Ridenour's great specialty was the radical cure of hernia. He was also surgeon for the Ft. Wayne railroad. He had been in a camatose condition since last Sunday.

A Traveling Paper Hanger Swallows as Ounce of Laudanum.

A Massillon special says: Henry Sar A Massillon special says: Henry Sargent, a traveling paper hanger out of work, made a deliberate attempt this evening to commit suicide by taking almost the entire contents of an ounce vial of laudanum. He took the potion in the principal residence street, but it was too strong and caused him to vomit, which saved his life. He was removed to the city prison and given medical attendance. He says the deed was attempted because he was despondent at being out of money and unable to secure work. He is not a drinking man, is well dressed, and says he has a wife and daughter in Plankinton, N. D.

A Farmer Assigns.

B. F. Berlin, farmer and nurseryman of Nimishillen township, made an assignment today to Jacob Kagy of Nimishillen township, for the benefit of his creditors. The liabilities are about $4,000, assets $4,-500. The assignment was caused by the fact that the farmers have no money with which to buy nursery stock.

I have been bothered with eatarch for about twenty years; I had lost sense of smell entirely, and I had almost lost my hearing. My eyes were getting so dim I had to get some one to thread my needle. Now I have my hearing as well as I ever had, and I can see to thread as fine a needle as ever I did, my sense of smell is partly restored, and it seems to be improving all the time. I think there is nothing like Ely's Gream Balm for catarch. Mrs. E. E. Grimes, Rendrill, Perry Co., O.

BOLD SWINDLERS

Detective John T. Norris Visits Canton in Search of Evidence-Those Who Have Lost by the Swindlers, Dectective John T. Norris, of Spring-field, was in town this morning looking up evidence in an extensive swindling scheme that has been going on in Wayne, Scheme that has been going on in wayne, Stark and surrounding counties recently. According to evidence that has been brought to light a gang of sharpers have been playing for high stakes in this vicinity and in the region of Wooster and Orrville. There were several interested in the scheme but the ring leader was Samuel Camp whose address was Marshalville.

The mode of operation of the clique was to represent themselves as wealthy citizens with plenty of real estate and notes zens with plenty of real estate and notes and stocke and by putting up a plausible story they would purchase horses, buggies and other salable property and give their notes for thirty and sixty days in payment. So successful were they that they succeeded in purchasing in this manner about $20,000 worth by giving their valueless paper in payment.

They Central Ohio Buggy company gave them buggies to the amount of over $2,000 and others were caught for nearly as large an amount. Developments showed that the gang was a regular pack of swindlers without a dollar's worth of this world's goods that could be got at by law.

Charles Matty, the horse dealer of Canal Charles statly, the horse ceater of canal fulton, sold the firm several horses; Ed. Meyers of this city, let them have horses to the amount of $950. Luckily for Mr. Meyers, however, he suspicioned that all was not right, and he went to Wooster and replevied his horses before they had succeeded in disposing of them. He will Detective Norris was out to see Mr. Meyer's this morning, and has warrants for the arrest of the swindlers who will be captured and brought before the courts to answer to the charge of obtaining property under false pretense.

The Navy Devocart last part had a

The News-DEMOCRAT last night had a nice exclusive story regarding the visit of Detective John T. Norris to this city and the object of his visit. The following special from Wooster will be of interest here: John T. Norris, the Springfield detective, this evening landed A. H. Fitzer of Apple Creek in jail on the charge of sending letters for the purpose of fraudulently obtaining money. Fitzer and his lently obtaining money. Fitzer and his partner, Samuel Rehm, have been engag-ed in selling biggies and buying horses. They swindled the Gallon Buggy company out of $3,000 worth of buggies. They also out of $3,000 worth of buggies. They also represented themselves as being the own-ers of a farm and succeeded in buying over forty head of horses at prices ranging from $200 to $500, for which they gave notes. Nearly a month ago Rehm claimed to have been robbed by masked burg-lars of $10,000, which he had hid in an or-gan. The alleged robbery was followed by an assignment. The story of the robbery was not believed and Detective Norris was employed to work up the case. Fitzer and Rehm also employed him to help them out. Norris had a man hide under a platform at Apple Creek depot while Fitzer told him how the urglary was worked and where the horse promised Norris that he would make a clean breast and tell where the money and property could be found.

LET HIM HANG

Until the Officials Were Formally Notified, and by that Time the Man was Dead.

A Toledo special gives the following account of the death of a Stark county man:
"W. H. Smith, an inmate of the Toledo Insane Asylum, hanged himself yesterday while the attendant was at meal with other nationts. On returning Smith was found hanging. The attendant, instead of cutting the rope, started out to find the Supervisor, and the two returned to the cottage, both at once started to find the Superintendent, leaving the patient still hanging. The physician let the body down, though it was too late to save his life. Smith was from Minerva, Stark county." county."

Horse Notes.

Massillon has decided to give a race meeting on the Fourth of July to com-mence at 1 o'clock. There is to be a free-for-all trot, with Harry Carlos, Zielly's Hiatoga and Modoc as the starters; a 2:50 trot with Fanny H. Beaver and Scott as starters, and a 3:30 trot with a whole lot of starters (eight). Of course a big crowd will go over from Canton, provided no fire crackers are allowed on the ground, to scare horses.

Quite a number of entries have been re ceived for the Canton races, already. All the indications are for a big meeting.

Stark county horses were in great luck at the Mansfield races. Yesterday Kitty Bayard, owned at Alliance, won the 2:30 trot in 2:27½, 2:29½ and 2:28½; Erie giri 2nd and Nightingale 3rd. The following is the summary of the free-for-all trot at Mansfield: PREE-EOR-ALL, TROTTING-PURSE $300.

Wallace Pierce, the millionaire iron man of Sharpsville, Pennsylvania, acted as starting judge at Mansfield yesterday. He is one of the best we have ever seen under the wire. He has a wonderful faculty of getting horses off promptly.

The happiest man at Mansfield yester-day, was Emery Miller, of Alliance, after his horse Frantic won the 2:35 trot, and went into the charmed circle in 2:29%. Quite a number of Canton horsemen atled the races at Mansfield yesterday, and found all the events interesting. Everything is promising for a big meeting in Canton on July 8th, 9th and 10th.

About 5,000 people attended the Mansfield races yesterday, and it was a great day. The following is the summary of the four prize takers in each event:

SENSATIONAL DIVORCE.

Dr. M. M. Catlin Sued For Divorce Saturday.

His Wife Makes Many Grave Charges Against Him--- The Doctor Also Arrested on a Peace Proceeding.

A suit for divorce was filed in common pleas court at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, which, if the allegations are true places a gentleman well known in Canton places a gentleman well known in Canton in a very unpopular light.

The case is that of Mrs. Catlin against her husband, Dr. M. M. Catlin, proprietor of the city livery in West Tenth street.

In her petition plaintiff states that they were married June 27, 1867, and have three children, the oldest being 21 years of age and the youngest 12 years of age. Mrs. Catlin alleges that defendant has been guilty of gross neglect of duty, and has guilty of gross neglect of duty, and has failed to provide proper clothing for herself and children. She further states that she has been obliged to borrow money from outside parties with which to provide her with necessities. The petition states that defendant has been quilty of extreme that defendant has been guilty of extreme cruelty for some time past, has frequently threatened to strike her, has struck her in the face and on the body, choked her and threatened to kill her.

According to Mrs. Cattlin's version her husband attempted to strike her with a chair, but the blow was warded off by her son Homer. After a short scuffle Dr. Catlin left the house.

Shortly after he had gone Mrs. Catlin, who is an invalid, summoned a carriage, and in company with her daughter, was driven to the office of Attorneys Welty & Taylor. To these centeren she related driven to the office of Attorneys welly & Taylor. To these gentlemen she related her story, but nothing was done in the case until later in the day, when the attorneys called to see Mrs. Cathin at the Hurford House. The papers for the divorce were made out, and after driving to Massillon to see Juige Pease, the petition was filed, with a temporary injunction at-tached, restraining defendant from in any way interfering with plaintiff, disposing or encumbering any of the property, and from interfering with the custody of the children.

Justice Ringle was called to the Hurford House in the evening, and there Mrs. Cat-lin signed an affidavit and Dr. Catlin was arrested on a peace proceeding. He was placed under bond of $590, the bond being signed by his attorney, L. M. Jenes, Dr. Catlin denies all the allegations made by his wife and will file an answer. He states that his wife is not accountable

The Old Settlers' pienic at the Fair Grounds Saturday was noticed in the issue of that day, but no particulars were given as we went to press while the society were in the midst of their proceedings. The afternoon was taken up with speeches and off band remarks by different members. The president, James Bayliss, of Perry, in opening the exercises, took occasion to comment upon the want of interest manifested by the old settlers of the county in not giving one day in the year to these meetings. While other

While other counties of the State north and south were having their annual meetings under the name of Pioneer and Old Settlers' associations, and having an interesting and good time, the sons and daughters of old Molly Stark treat it with indifferences. This is not as it should be and it is to be hoped that in the future there will be a more general turn out.

Thomas McCall told the story of his carly life—of his residence in the county 75 years and of the great changes that had been wrought in the customs and habits of the people.

Secretary Ira M. Allen contributed an interesting chapter recounting his early career—his travels from New York State to Randall where he commenced as a school feacher and his experience in that line among the Quakers.

Jesse Harter of Plain township gave an interesting history of his family. He has a sister now living in Ashland county, who is 95 years of age. Lee South, of Alliance, in a petition filed against the Alliance Water Works Co., states that the reachiners of the water works company was unprotected and that a certain wheel particularly was very daugerous and attractive to children when at play. That his child Roy South, nearly eight years of age, was instantly killed, his ciothes having caught in the unprotected machinery. Plain-tiff says that by reason of the negligence and carolessness of the de-fendant, causing the death of his child he has been damaged in the sum of $10,000, for which he prays judgment.

Tired of Prohibition.

An Alliance special to the Plain Dealer says: With a city ordinance prohibiting the sale of all intoxicants there are no less than sixty-five saloons remaining wide open in defia ace of law. A largely attended meeting of the temperance people was held yesterday afternoon A Farmer Arrested on Two Serious enforced, Jt is not likely that anything can be done towards closing the saloons until after the supreme court renders a decision as to the validity of the ordinance, which has been in the possession of the courts for a number of months. The sentil nent here now is towards a re-peal of the ordinance.

That Tired Feeling

Is experienced by almost everyone at this season, and many people resort to Rood's Sarsapegilla to drive away the languor and exhaustion. The blood, laden with impurities which have been accumulating for months. moves singgishly through the seins, the mind fails to think quickly, and the body is still slower to respond.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is just what is needed. Read what is said by Mr. C. Parmelee, 349 Braige Street, Brooklyn. N. Y.: "I take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring tonic, and I recommend it to all who have that miserable tired feeling." "For years I was sick every spring, but last year took Hood's Sarsaparilla in February and have not seen a sick day since." G. W.

SLOAN, Milton, Mass, Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the clairs that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Spreaparilla overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

Fagged Out "Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle o Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.
"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excel-lent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md. N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsa-parilla do not be induced to buy anything else
